Uppsala Centre for Sustainable Development

Welcome to The Sustainability Pub

Library, Geocentrum, Villavägen 16 every Thursday 5 to 9 pm.

The Uppsala Centre for Sustainable Development now opens the doors to a new informal meeting place for teachers, students, researchers, and others with an interest in sustainability.

Every Thursday after work you are welcome to the Sustainability Pub in the Library at Geocentrum, Villavägen 16.

Beer, wine, and simple snacks will be offered at cost price.

Join us on Thursdays if you would like to explore sustainability with others working with similar projects from different departments, if you want to discuss your topic, find new partners, get inspiration, or simply if you just want to relax and rest a while after a hard day's work with no obligations at all.

At the inauguration on Thursday 28th of November, we invite you for a glass of sparkling wine and snacks

The Uppsala Centre for Sustainable Development is an interdisciplinary centre established at Uppsala University, based on a collaboration between Uppsala University (UU) and the Swedish University of Agricultural Sciences (SLU) has aims to be a catalyst for research and education on sustainable development at Uppsala's two universities, as well as a place for students and researchers.
